TO CAZENOVIA HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

The 1987-1988 school year has been a great one! Cazenovia High School students can justifiably be proud of their academic, athletic and extra-curricular accomplishments. As always, I am proud of the way you conduct yourselves. I frequently receive compliments from visitors, on the friendliness and courtesy of our students and the obvious pride that you take in your school.

The Class of 1988 deserves special thanks and congratulations. Your achievements helps set a fine example for all underclassmen. Good luck and best wishes for the future.

Thomas Long
Principal

Thomas Long
Cazenovia High School Principal

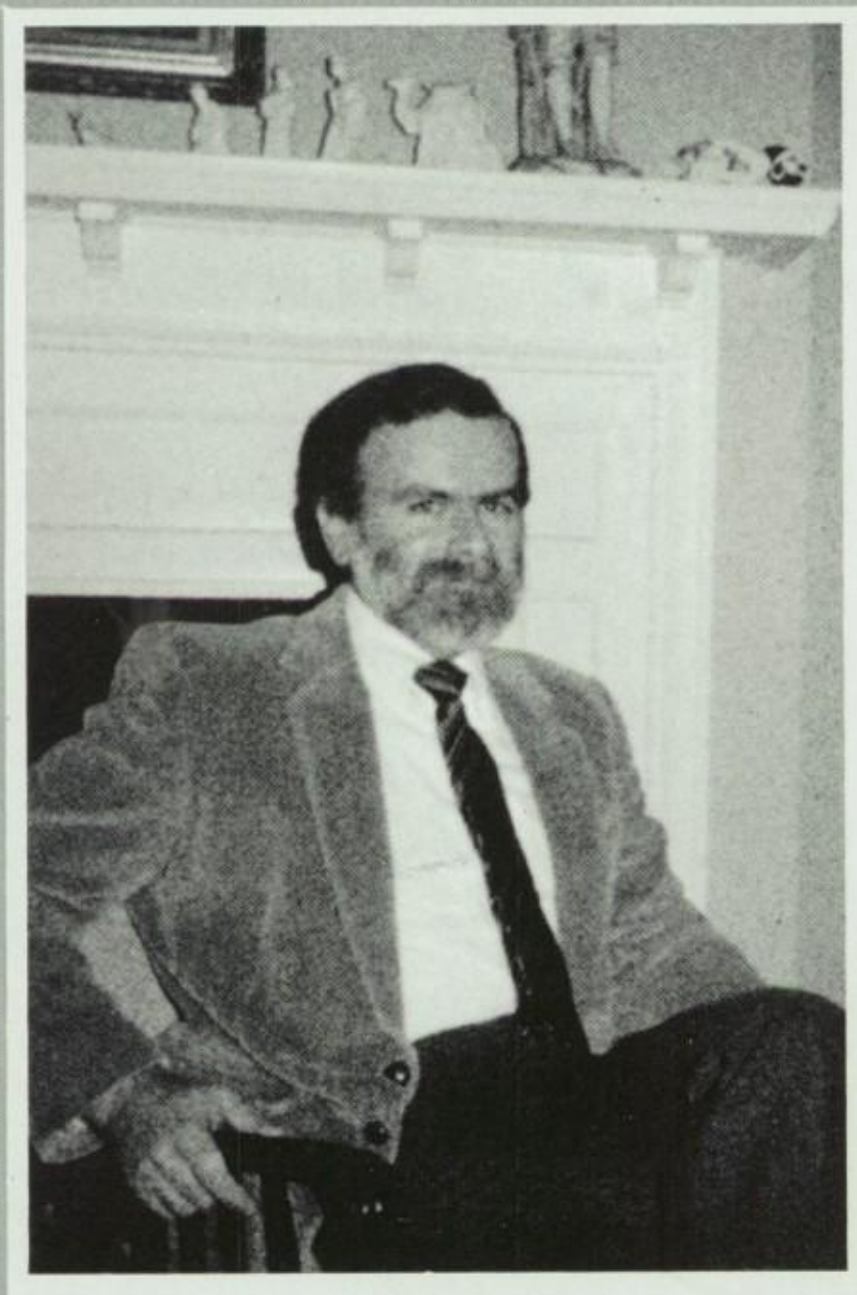

Jean Jeffery
Cazenovia HS Assistant Principal

Cazenovia High School students, faculty, and staff are of the highest caliber. To be a part of its administration has been rewarding. We should certainly be proud of the friendly academic atmosphere of our school which is contributed to by the parents and community.

The 1987-88 school year has brought great excitement with trips to the Carrier Dome and Long Island. The accomplishments of the FFA, EST, Student Government, Drama Club, AFS, Yearbook, and other extra-curricular activities have shown the talents and interests of our students. Outstanding academic achievement as high- lighted by ROTC, college, and Regents' Scholarships testify to student accomplishments. The music and applied arts programs encourage creativity and opportunities for self-expression at concerts and recitals, and MONY competitions. The Cazenovia High School student is the beneficiary of a varied and challenging secondary education.

MEMORIES

When day breaks anew, and the sky is bright blue it reminds me of the times
I shared with you.

When day has ended, and the stars are suspended, it reminds me of how our love once blended.

Although day is gone,
my love still lives on,
even though you forgot what lasted so long.

Pity
those who cannot be free with themselves to show kindness and love; for them
I weep
"Mitzvah": a good deed done without expectation of reward.

Sometimes when I'm walking down the hall, I'll see an open locker and smack it firmly shut; they always clang. I think this qualifies as a "mitzvah." I mean, no one ever acknowledges that I've shut their lockers, but that's okay.
I left the top part of mine open once, and some things got taken;
there was no one to shut my locker.

— Sara Bridget

Bridget Copper

When walking along the beach with my footprints in the sand
I wonder how high I'll soar and I wonder where I'll land

For as the waves wipe my prints away and new sand is washed ashore
I know that we'll be gone someday leaving space for generations more To walk along the beach

— Kris Goris

Mike Enders

I'm waiting for the silent dawn;
The stars have faded, their glitter gone.
The moon, barely there, is still watching me.
A carpet of diamonds lies silently.

Climbing stealthily, reaching, spreading light,
Embracing me, washing away the night.
Here I'm not lonely, though the only one,
A little piece of heaven, I see beyond the sun.

The Computer

The computer sits silently in the back of the room, awaiting our knowledge. It is patient; it waits until new views are formed, until new theories are fabricated. The monitor's screen reflects faces and ideas. It gives the impression of intelligence, the impression of all-knowing. When not illuminated, its dark screen stares at us, and we stare at it, wondering what is hiding in its depths. The computer is white; it is pure. It cannot lie; it cannot judge.

Letter to Fred Winchell:

Sitting in a forgotten corner of the valley you left behind, I feel as you did years ago. Burning leaves scent the air and yellow overflows the valley as life pours from millions of leaves in a triumphantly vibrant death. An engine roars down the road, and the cold ground chills my bones and defeats my tranquility.

Mystifying Maple

The fields smelled fragrant; the crickets sang sweetly; the stars glimmered beautifully. The illuminated night appeared perfect except the Goddess of the evening sky had disappeared. One by one, her followers, the stars, suprisingly began to lose their stability, fell, and surrendered their home in the sky. The overcast suddenly turned the sky into a sorrowful reguerm.

To the casual observer the Pond may not seem a place of beauty, but there I can go to reflect and sit and dream. The crisp autumn colors, winter's freezing ice, sweet spring flowers and the slimy summer frogs.

— Pete Dargle

She squatted in the doorway and greeted me with a beaming smile. Awan had neatly pressed her only white uniform, tattered by years of wear. She chattered in Chinese as she shuffled through the kitchen carving and arranging the entrees making them appear as though a human hand hadn't touched them.

— Piper Lounsbury

Within a patch of forest next to East Lake Road was my own space, my "house". The pungent stump became the table; other times, an easy chair that, every time I sat on it, crackled as if talking to me. I would pick soft mushrooms and break them to see their vertical-lined heart; that would be my dinner.

— Sara Davidson

The wind dropped to a hush as I walked up the secluded trail, thorns biting me from both sides. The house loomed ominously behind the old picket fence. The latch slid open, and the familiar mustiness that reminds one of a time before ours enveloped me. Sunshine-dust floated everywhere as the creaking floorboards announced my arrival to the spiders that decorated the rooms with their artwork. I climbed the stairs, and finding the well-used rocking chair where I had left it, I sat.

in the darkness of my own silence, with my heart-beat,

is holding me, is hindering me, suppressing my will to try.

Ten months in Hong Kong, 19 hours on a plane, 180 minutes waiting for luggage; we're now heading home. The drive seems overwhelmingly familiar, like we'd driven it just yesterday. Here is the "home stretch"; here Route 92 meets Route 20; to the left is a welcoming view of Cazenovia Lake, another half mile to go. I can see the traffic lights that separate Route 20 from Route 13 ahead. We bear left into town. We pass under the flashing red light, across Route 20, onto Forman St. We pull into our driveway; nothing's changed.

Giggles of children building castles in the sand reach me as I stroll down to the Pier — the perfect place to picnic, swim, or sit quietly, listening to muffled voices float across the lake. In no other place do I feel as comfortable, sitting with old friends, or new, as a storm creeps toward us.

The yearbook process knows no season: beginning in the summer, winding down with the anxious anticipation of the product's arrival, only to gear up again for the next year. Hours go into photographing and cropping pictures, doing layouts, and writing and typing copy for each of the 160 pages. Under the direction of a new advisor, Mr. DeHaas, the staff attempted to include every high school student in a special way — not an easy task for such a small staff.

Thank you, Mr. DeHaas who cannot be thanked enough for all that he devoted to the yearbook. He quite frequently could be found photographing school events and typing copy — much more than his share of the responsibility. A caring advisor and an asset to the yearbook, Mr. DeHaas, we thank you.

Special thanks are also extended to: the Photography and AP English classes for providing beautiful candid photos and writings; Melissa Fose, Susan Dady, and Cindy Marris for efficiently completing the time-consuming job of typing blurbs; the senior class for cooperating with our deadline-laden schedule; Mrs. Knicley for photos of teams and organizing the pre-sale; Mr. Long for his support and help; and the yearbook staff for sticking to this demanding job. The job has its rewards, and the yearbook eventually will be appreciated.

— Kelli Googin

Well, maybe not for a living. Cazenovia High School students not only are in traditional school activities, but many are active workers in the community. And how do they spend that hard-earned money? Perhaps on clothes, a new stereo, or towards a college education. Or maybe they just like to have some spare cash for the weekend. They might even save up that money to buy . . .

Crossing Guards

Even on the coldest of days, Walter Parsons would stand vigil with me at my Albany Street crossing guard post. I knew he had to be feeling the same cold that bit at my face, but he didn't seem to mind. He talked to me about his life, his high school, and about his time as a crossing guard. It seemed to me a life without regret, and his happiness warmed me through winter.

SPIRIT

I have or never had An imaginary friend.
Sometimes when I need to think
I go to my room
Where the spirit of easy thinking
And quiet lives.

I can then think of what to do
Or how to do it
Until I get disturbed.
Before then it's just spirit and me.

A YOUNG FATHER

I am a young father who loves his son.
I wonder what the world will be like when he grows up.
I hear the things he will ask me when he gets older.
I see what he will look and act like in the future.
I want to see him grow up and be successful at what he wants to be.
I am a young father who loves his son.

I am a young father who loves his son.
Now I am a reformed drinker.
I think having a son made it happen.
I wish I could graduate.
I like the way I am.
I am a young father who loves his son.

The academic Decathlon is a nationwide competition of high school students designed to promote and reward academic endeavors. Although this is the first year Cazenovia has participated in the Decathlon, we were highly successful. On February 6, we travelled to Westhill High School to compete with several area schools for the Section III Championship. We conquered all with an easy win over last year's victors, Marcellus. Cazenovia won 14 out of 54 medals and 4 out of 9 trophies. With a well-prepared and erudite team, we then went on to state competition at Rochester.

Honor Society Inducts 24

Twenty-four Cazenovia High School students were inducted into the Owaghena Chapter of National Honor Society in a ceremony January 28 in the high school auditorium.

Jim Havranek, chapter president, welcomed the inductees, their families, friends and faculty members. Each of the new members was escorted to the stage by a current member and introduced to the audience by another. The accomplishments of each inductee were described.

The inductees lit a single candle from the flame of the larger Candle of Wisdom and were presented with a National Honor Society pin certificate by Thomas E. Long, principal.

The four significant qualities of National Honor Society membership — scholarship, leadership, character and service — were defined by Rob Fredericks, adviser. Following his remarks, the inductees were administered the membership oath by Mr. Long.

Several vocal selections were performed by the high school chamber choir, under the direction of Peter Clar-elli.

Closing remarks were given by Dr. John FitzGibbons, society adviser, whose message was based on a song by Phil Oakes, "The Power and the Glory."

"The glory rests on us all," he said, adding that he hopes this country "continues to be the land of the power and the glory." He admonished the inductees to set goals for themselves but also to stop "to enjoy the journey."

The inductees were Holly Favro, Erin Goldacker, Jonathan Gottlieb, Laura Herbert, Andrew Howard, Aaron Johnson, Edward Manion, Melissa Markowski, Michael Marsallo, Margaret McCall, Lynne McCarthy, Meghan McVety, Tjede Merlini, Christopher Moses, Amy Palmer, Jason Polzin, Timothy Puzey, Claudine Rosmarino, Suzanne Rothfeld, Anthony Schmidt, Karen Suarez and Kimberly Tallett.

Honorary membership was presented to exchange students Alexandre da Silva and Nabil Kharman, from the Cazenovia Republican, 2/2/88.

It started one Tuesday morning in August with a three mile run, followed by weeks of vigorous pre-season training on a soccer field surrounded by corn fields. As the newness of the season settled in, both old and new members of the varsity soccer team knew that the 1987 season would be something special.

Under Coach John Tarrant's steady guidance, the twenty-three members of the soccer team formed a bond that will never be broken. Together, this team, made up of friends, helped each other through bad times, and laughed with each other through good times. The tensions and anxieties that always swelled before a game were easily overcome by the mutual support every player gave to each other. Coach Tarrant's pep-talks carried the team to victory after victory, instilling confidence and the desire to win.

The 1987 soccer team will not easily be forgotten. The twenty-three team members and the trio of coaches; Sheila Delaney, Lew Manns, and John Tarrant, all share memories that will last a lifetime. Because of the girls' hard work, work which started fifteen years ago, this unforgettable group of people travelled to the Carrier Dome, Hartwick College, Coyne Field, and to Stonybrook College to experience the exhilaration of victory at each location, including victories in state tournament play. This team set precedents for future Cazenovia squads to follow. This team achieved goals once never dreamed of.

To all seniors on the team, to Sara Davidson and Robin Dryer, our unwavering captains; good luck. Future teams will follow the trail you blazed.

When you think of varsity boys' basketball, it's always "The team that has what it takes . . . but always ends up short!" This year the team commenced the season with a dazzling victory over their namesake Skaneateles. The squad showed they could play as they boasted wins over Camden, Canastota, and New Hartford. However, there were heart-breaking losses as Caz was defeated in nail-biters by Chittenango, Clinton, and Westhill.

Led by veteran coach, John Fontana, the squad was manned by both seniors and juniors. Seniors, James O'Brien, Pete Dargle, Steve Kent, Kev McLean, Tony Schmidt, Ken Abrahamsen, Bill Link, and Tim Sutton . . . showed leadership, smarts, scored, hit the boards, and did whatever possible for a competitive season. Juniors Mike "Chooch" Marsallo, Jimmy McDowell, Scott Koslowski, John Hudson, Jay Fradenburg, and John "Air" Sherburne . . . played exceptionally and will show that next year the Lakers will be winners once again.

A high school hockey game played several years ago lasted two overtimes. The crowd told it all: the emotional roar as a scoring opportunity arose and died, the tense drone as time out was called, and the loud applause as a three-on-two was thwarted by the goaltender.

CONGRATULATIONS to the members of the Class of 1988 and to all of the classes which follow who have attained the degree of success necessary in maintaining the level of excellence that the Cazenovia school system has enjoyed over the years.

You are the benefactors of your achievements; achievements that have been recorded in every aspect of the school program. Your efforts, the direction and support of your parents and teachers, result in success. Let this be one of the most important lessons you learn.

Overcrowding On Next School Board Agenda

Where will all the children go?
That question arose in September, when more children than expected ended up in Cazenovia classrooms.

Test Scores Rise

Scholastic Aptitude Test scores for the Cazenovia High School class of 1987 were higher than those of the year before and continue to be significantly above New York State and national norms.

Caz Middle School Principal Named Assistant Superintendent

Charles E. Read, principal of the Cazenovia Middle School, has been named assistant superintendent of schools.
The appointment was approved by the board of education at its monthly meeting October 19.

Caz Students Earn Honors

Teachers, District Agree To Contract

The contract between the Cazenovia Teachers Assn., an affiliate of New York State United Teachers, and the Cazenovia school district was ratified by the Board of Education on September 21 and by association members the next day.

OK Budget By 447-265 Margin

Cazenovia School District voters approved the proposed 1987-88 school budget by a vote of 447-265 May 6.

Grade Reconfiguration For Starters

Panel Offers Space Crunch Answers

Construction of a new building, renovation of current buildings, and a temporary grade reconfiguration have been recommended by a citizen advisory committee asked to evaluate space problems in the Cazenovia schools.

Asbestos Removal Planned At Schools

Officials from the Cazenovia School District are planning to remove asbestos pipe coverings

I a s t w i l l a n d t e s t a m e n t

I, William L. Tamiso, do hereby bequeath to all the men in the Universe a very slow and painful death, should they touch Lisa Marie Retan.

I, MCB, do hereby bequeath to KDF a staple-all to yourself, and a special case so you'll be able to deal with it.

I, Traci Taber, do hereby bequeath to Melissa Carpenter my FLUFFY cat and to Nicole Chessser all of my socks.

I, Jacki Trudell, do hereby bequeath to Sara Swalm a free ticket to every Army movie in the future.

I, Lynne McCarthy, do hereby bequeath to Nancy Costello my ability to pass an English test and to Scott (cling-on) a dozen eggs.

I, Jamie Rotter, do hereby bequeath to Mr. Parker, my Van Halen collection and the solid gold shrine I keep it in to truly enhance his musical tastes.

I, Kerry Herzig, do hereby bequeath to Greg Miller the ability to find a shrubbery when in dire need of one.

I, Sara Swalm, do hereby bequeath to Mr. Read a television set and a dozen kittens.

I, Katherine Perkins, do hereby bequeath to Mr. Read an apple pie to enjoy from "Perky's." I also bequeath luck to all the underclassmen.

I, Susan Dady, do hereby bequeath to Tom O'Herin and Bill Russett, my great bowling ability, and to Mr. Kasold my smokin' and eatin'.

I, Nicole Chessser do hereby bequeath to Melissa Carpenter my superb ability to drive a standard so she can race the Volvo. To Traci Taber, my unstretchy jeans and to all of my buddies, my off the wall craziness so they can get by in life.

I, Bridget C., do hereby bequeath to Julie and Morgan, the chance to live at my house during your senior years of Spazenovia.

I, Wendy, do hereby bequeath to my sister, Becky, my 20 minutes of well-used phone time.

I, Lisa Jillson, do hereby bequeath to KD Falso all of my pristine mannerisms as I move on.

I, Katherine A. Moore, do hereby bequeath to Babs Weber, and to Hallie King, a new tennis team and all of the meatloaf they can eat on chicken night.

I, Megan B., do hereby bequeath my infamous "record" to anyone that will take it, and my sympathy to all underclassmen who must come back here next year.

I, Gina DeCew, do hereby bequeath to Mr. Schmit one triangle; ding not included.

We, Melissa and Gina, do hereby bequeath to Ken and Jim an "r" so they can become Greek Gods in college instead of Geek Gods.

I, Kim Tallett, do hereby bequeath to Jimmy McDowell, a real pair of pants and my ability to drive. And to Scott, I bequeath my ability to never get embarrassed!

We, Sarah, Pam and Nancy do hereby bequeath to Joy Harvey the ability to say ambulance, parenthesis, and naked.

I, Lisa Retan, do hereby bequeath to my parents and to William Tamiso my love and appreciation forever.

I, Susan Costello, do hereby bequeath to Meghan McVety a box of Ho-Ho's, empty cans, and special memories. To Nancy, the two puppies (David and Denny).

I, Karen Schokker, do hereby bequeath to my parents my love and thanks for all the support that you have given me throughout the years; thanks.

I, Catherine Wilbur, do hereby bequeath to my dad the first new car I buy. Well, maybe the second new car I buy.

I, Elaine Hollis, do hereby bequeath to Amanda Miller my ability to get out of the house whenever necessary. To the swim team my ability to get home faster!

I, Christina Stevens, do hereby bequeath to Sara Swalm my fantastic ability to get a car out of almost any place and to Joe Deyo, all the love in the world because you deserve it.

I, Susan Perkins do hereby bequeath to Kim Tallett, the ability to pump gas.

I, Rick Whipple, do hereby bequeath to all working students the fight for the right to park their car.

We, the lucky seven, do hereby bequeath to Hilary Grunert the ability to go to a senior party and actually be a senior; we'll miss you next year.

I, Bonnie Roberts, do hereby bequeath my good memories in and out of school to my closest friends I leave behind.

I, Kate McDowell do hereby bequeath all underclassmen boys the opportunity to get a real woman after Sue Costello is gone!

I, Andy Brooks, do hereby bequeath to Troy Waffner a thirsty-thirty-two-ouncer in which to mix coke and pepsi (or 7-up and milk), my ability to survive off-road excursions, and the '78 Malibu to survive them in.

I, Megan B., do hereby bequeath the ability to Mr. Kasold to recognize a truly well-dressed "young lady."

We, the seniors on the boys varisty soccer team, do hereby bequeath to the underclassmen the ability to go past the quarter finals in sectionals.

I, Stephen Cook, do hereby bequeath to Jason Dyer his own VW Microbus and to my sensible buddy, Doug Shepherd, a fine, kind, generous time, and a real chick!

I, Bridget Butler, do hereby bequeath to Amy Butler a can of cherry pop, and to Becky Brackett the task of hand jiving alone and never being second, and to Nan and Tjede ANYTHING.

I, Lee Anne Dennis, do hereby bequeath to Mr. Schmed the ability to fine someone to pick on him as much as I did, and to Mr. K my "To Omit" symbol so that he will always remember me.

I, Holly Favro, do hereby bequeath to Nanner Banner orange Smarties or a bottle of childrens' aspirin, to Jesse the ability to take a hint, to Tjede the rabbit and parking tickets, and to Edwin the ability to play volleyball and a bêche de mer.

I, Sarah Ryan, do hereby bequeath to Amy Googin the ability to wear her rings while playing volleyball.

We, Bridget Butler and Holly Favro, do hereby bequeath to Andreen Brown the ability to boogie on the back of the track bus.

I, Tammy Huber, do hereby bequeath to my brother the ability to skip school for three months each year and still pass. And to Jenny P. and Robin K, the ability to play basketball.

I, Sara Ann Vivirito, do hereby bequeath to Pam Sadlon my ability to have the biggest mouth and act as strange as possible and get away with it. And to Vinnie (my bro), the ability to drive a car and hit as many cop cars as possible.

I, Steve Weeks, do hereby bequeath to Cheri a pillow, Babs, the good chair, Erika, the roof of my car, Carla, the ability to drive and shotgun.

I, Shana Hogan, do hereby bequeath to my sister, Kate, the "party mobile" and my ability to steal little Mold late at night for a YITTY time at Maaapes.

We, Jody Pace and Jonna Dennen, do hereby bequeath to Rusty and Marco the ability to keep a straight face when things get "out of hand."

I, Mike Enders, do hereby bequeath to Bill Link a long DD in hope that when he finds that special girl he may use it.

I, Melissa Carpenter, do hereby bequeath to Traci T. and Sarah V. the ability to pull in and out of parking Spaces without hitting anything.

I, Keith James Hooper, do hereby bequeath to Skog my ten-speed so he can see how a real bike handles; to Mr. Schmit my running hat since he "loves" it so much and my body to scientific research.

I, Kelly Thoms, do hereby bequeath to Squid (Chris Marris) the wrestling trophy, which he will never get. Good luck!

I, Kelly Jones, do hereby bequeath to all the Juniors the long dreaded trip up the stairs every day, two or three times; and to Mr. Kasold I leave Marylou Jones if you ever miss me. If you have ever seen her, you'll know why.

I, Michael P. Marconi, do hereby bequeath to the Thoms girls my time and experience as a future brother-in-law.

I, Sara Davidson, do hereby bequeath to my dear sister, Barrie, the wonderous task of doing ALL the dishes ALL the time.

We, Wendy Wahl and Kristin Goris do hereby bequeath to any underclassmen clever enough to avoid Tim M. at Phoebe's the ability to thoroughly enjoy sour sorbet.

We, Karen Kaplan, Maggie McCall, and Tim Sutton, do hereby bequeath to the West Lake Roaders our genuine benevolency towards the TRUCK and toward you, the cute little angels and saints, who have enriched our riding experiences. We hope that you too can obtain the profound knowledge of the art of TRUCK riding which we have acquired throughout our changing adolescent years.

We, Jonna Dennen and Jody Pace, do hereby bequeath to Dana Packard the memories of the camp.

I, Bone A??, do hereby bequeath to the underclassmen who participate in soccer the ability to dominate the air and reign as Air Traffic Control, to anyone with enough guts the ability to sport a flat-top and be proud of it, and finally to all those qualified the ability to "stuff" in any and/or all classes.

I, Cathy Kane, do hereby bequeath to any underclassmen a sharp tounge, an evil eye, and a quick come-back, and with them I leave a little common sense so that they may be used in appropriate situations.

I, Heather Tyler, do hereby bequeath to Heather Johnson the ability to make a real fake I.D.

We, the senior varsity field hockey players, do hereby bequeath to our coaches the ability to properly "boogie in your butt".

I, Scott Miller do hereby bequeath to my little brother, Greg, the responsibilities and expectations of the name "Mold".

We, the girls varsity soccer team, do hereby bequeath to Becky Brackett a life-time supply of hair spray for those desperate times before a game.

I, Melissa Fose, do hereby bequeath to Pam and Val a listening ear, and to Mr. Kasold my ability to second guess and be right.

I, Chris Townsend, do hereby bequeath to Jon Townsend muscles and protectiveness to watch over our sister.

We, Molly Keane, Brian Copeland, Kerry Herzig, and Jon Thompson, do hereby bequeath to Katie Keane sole proprietorship of "the" club.

We, Tim Sutton and Kelli Googin, do hereby bequeath to Amy Googin a diaper, so she won't wet right through poopy pants.

I, Melissa Corrigan, do hereby bequeath to Lori Pavese a whole jar of pickles, New York Seltzer, hot chocolate, and many family memories around the synthesizer.

I, Piper Lounsbury, do hereby bequeath to Tucker the ability to wash the dishes. You're gonna love it!

Amie
Haven't seen you much this year - you were together in next year's classes - we'll be in this year's - we'll be in We're almost juniors - Marcie
Wow!

Hi. How are you. Well Sparueh has been great. Fun times here. Arise Jane, Arise Ann or what is it just kidding. I hope that I will see you over the summer.
Hey, I still owe you a Birthday present. Thanks for all the help in math. When I get my license you'll be the first second to ride.

* always *

Amie-

Lunch was great.

Had lots of laughs
even though you didn't play our queer games. ^{HA HA HA}

Math was quite unusual w/ the witch, don't you think. Never forget Debbie in English (here I ain and knee-highs)!

There were major laughs. Keep smiling

Shelly

Amie,

Are you distraught? I'm not!
This year was great! Good Luck

on Spanish! And of course all of your other subjects!

Next year will be even better!

Have a good summer!

Furke
(Lesley)

HA

Amie,
This year is gone - next year
you'll be a survivor.
Remember Derek's house - ~~see~~ your on the canna. To bad Lisa is gone. I hope you have a Great Summer!
Katharine

Amie,

Can you believe it - I actually spelled your name right! Thank goodness you were in my gym class - atleast you made it bearable! Lunch second sem - has been fabulous w/ you - we had a blast! Fun times w/ Lisa & Missy - frozen bras - thanx, you little whinner! Movie madness until 5 - Miss & I were 3-ing them off about then. Many fun times w/ fun & close friends. Thanx bud - we'll get together this summer!

See ya -

Souret

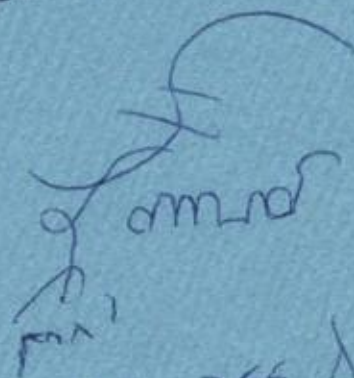

Amie -

Since noone has signed on The front of your book go to the front to finish this message - follow the arrows!

Amie!

Gym was a blast! HA, HA!
We had a great gym teacher too!
I hope we have more classes together next year. If we have lunch together again I'll come up with better games to play!

hovers
there

Amie,

well we got through this year w/Miss Delaney but we still have two more years of her. That's depressing! Well have a great summer and good luck next year - only 3 more left!

- Amy
